

Know Your Rights: A Faculty Town Hall on Academic Freedom and Political Interference

Thursday, March 27th, 5:30 – 7:00 PM, Toy Lounge, Dey Hall

Or attend over Zoom: <https://unc.zoom.us/j/98329777299>

UNC faculty are facing increasing political interference in our teaching, research, and university governance. This open forum will provide a space for faculty to share concerns, discuss challenges, and strategize collective action.

Open to all UNC faculty—bring your questions and concerns!

Discussion Topics:

- Attacks on DEI and Academic Freedom
- Immigrant Safety and Right to Protest
- Research Funding Under Threat
- Trans Rights on Campus

Legal experts from UNC and the AAUP will be on hand to moderate questions and offer perspective. Join fellow faculty members for an open discussion on the issues affecting our work, our students, and the future of higher education.

Hosted by UNC Chapel Hill's Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). For more info, e-mail: info@unc-ch-aaup.org. To learn more about the AAUP's role in defending academic freedom, visit: <https://www.aaup.org>
